College Choir And Glee Clubs United; One Group To Function For Three

Combined Organizations to Make Spring Tour In Vacation

FORTY STUDENTS WILL PARTICIPATE

Mr. H. Ward Bedford Will Direct; Management By Lewis '38

The Middlebury College choir and glee clubs have been combined this year for the first time.

Formerly there were three separate organizations, the college choir, and the women's and men's glee clubs. Now the three groups have been united into one consisting of fifty members.

The combined groups are planning besides the singing of the regular Sunday vesper service anthems, to give a number of performances while on a tour of several states. They hope to go as far south as Washington, D. C., although the plans for the tour are not yet definite. As only forty of the fifty members will be allowed to participate, the members to go will be chosen on a competitive basis during the year.

The entire new organization will be called the college choir here, although on the trips they will go under the name of the Combined Men's anl Women's Glee Clubs of Middlebury College." Mr. H. Ward Bedford is directing the choir again this year, and Harold W. Lewis '38 is the manager.

Laura McMullen To Lecture Here

"Europe on the March" and "Russian Impressions" to Be Discussed by Author

Laura Waples McMullen, author and prominent lecturer, will give two addresses in Mead memorial chapel on October 7 and 8, under the auspices of several town women's organizations, the women's forum, and the college departments of contemporary civilization, economics, and history. Her subjects will be "Europe on the March", Thursday evening, and "Russian Impressions, Summer of 1937", the following evening. Both will be open to students without charge and are scheduled for 8:00.

Mrs. McMullen returned early this month from her fourth tour of Europe. She studied this summer at the University of Upsala, in Sweden, and has traveled during the past year through Russia, three Scandinavian countries, Turkey, the Balkans, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Latvia, Lithuania, Estonia, and Danzig Free State. Former trips have taken her through most of the north European countries as well as China and Japan. She lived in Germany one year as a violin student of Carl Halir at the Koenigliche Hochschule in Berlin.

'Kaleid' Distribution Expected During Next Seven Days

Presentation to Be Made in Chapel on Saturday Or Monday

FEW EXTRA COPIES WILL BE AVAILABLE

New Issue Plans Finished; Book Will Be Contrast to 1938 Edition

Presentation of the 1938 Kaleidoscope will take place either Saturday or Monday in Chapel, unless some unforseen happening occurs in the meantime. it was announced today. Distribution to the students is expected to begin this next Wednesday or Thursday.

The book is composed of 320 pages and contains approximately 1250 illustrations. Wine and gold is the predominating color scheme. The write-ups this year are somewhat briefer due to the extent of photography.

A few extra copies of the 1938 Kaleidoscope will be available for upperclassmen and freshmen who desire them. The price will be five dollars a copy for these extra numbers.

Plans for the 1939 Kaleidoscope have been completed and work commenced. The book will be a contrast to its predecessor in that it will feature write-ups instead of pictures. Also interested in new treatment of a college annual, the editor plans reading material to cover more students and activities than previous Middlebury annuals have done.

Sittings for formal junior portraits will start in about a week. Sophomore tryouts for the editorial staff will be called out shortly.

Entertainments To Include Lecturers

Annual College Series Will Also Feature Concerts By Prominent Musicians

Three concerts and lectures on art, economics, and the drama are to be included on the 1937-38 entertainment program arranged by Prof. Lewis J. Hathaway.

The opening lecture will be given by Stuart Chase, author and economic commentator, in Mead chapel on October 2. "Rich Land, Poor Land" will be his subject.

John Mason Brown, who has been so popular with Middlebury audiences for the past two years, is also on the program. His lecture, "Broadway in Review", will be given March 11.

Other programs include:

October 27—Orrea Pernet, English violinist and Bruce Simonds, pianist.

November 30 — The Westminister Choir.

December 7—Rollo Walter Brown, author. Subject; "Should Intelligent People Read Novels".

January 7—E. T. E. de, curator at the Tate Gallery, London. Subject: "Pictures are Like People." E

January 27—George Barrere Woodwind Ensemble.

The entertainment series will be free to all student, because the admission price has been included in the semester bill. The cost to faculty members and townspeople will be $3.50 for the entire series, or $.75 for individual programs.

GYM INFORMAL

The dancing festivities of the college were begun last Saturday evening at McCullough Gymnasium when seventy-five couples danced to a new edition of the Black Panthers. Chaperons were Prof. and Mrs. V. Spencer Goodreds, Prof. and Mrs. Bruno M. Schmidt.

Undergraduate Officers Appointed By Student Council At Opening Meeting

E. SHERBURNE LOVELL '38
Undergraduate Vice-President

DRAMA DEPARTMENT WILL PRESENT GROUP OF PLAYS OCTOBER 30

Castings are now under way for the dramatics department's first production, a group of one-act plays, which will be presented at the college playhouse Thursday and Friday, October 20 and 21.

Included in the group will be a favorite of long standing at Middlebury, "The Valiant", by Middlemass and Hall, and "The Girl" by Edward Peple.

The first long play of the season will be presented at Thanksgiving time, and is to be "The Queen's Husband", by Robert Sherwood.

Season tickets, which have been on sale for the past week, may be purchased from the various fraternity and dormitory representatives.

Lins to Advise First-Year Men on Observance Of Tradition

VICE-PRESIDENT OF MEN TO BE LOVELL

Freshman Class Elections Will Be Conducted This Evening

Elections of officers and action on the question of control of freshmen have been the main business of recent meetings of the student council.

At an early gathering of the council, E. Sherburne Lovell '38 was named vice-president of the undergraduate association. Richard C. Soule '38 and John R. Williams '38 were elected secretary and treasurer respectively of the association. Glenn H. Leggett '40 was named secretary of the council.

The other important business was taken up at an open meeting of the council last night. As a result of sentiment in the upper classes that the freshmen men have been acting contrary to Middlebury tradition, a definite course of action was decided upon.

Milton K. Lins '38, president of the council will address the freshmen tonight in order to impress upon them the seriousness of the situation. At the same time the freshmen elections will be held. The president elected at that time will automatically become a member of the council. It was felt that in this way a contact would be established between the upperclassmen and the freshmen.

The freshman class officers will be responsible for the actions of their classmates. The student council will

Wide Interest Attracted by Pres. Paul D. Moody's Article in Atlantic on Father, Celebrated Evangelist

By James R. Akers '40

The September issue of the "Atlantic Monthly" contined an article written by President Paul D. Moody, entitled 'Dwight L. Moody, a Family Picture."

Written in an "I remember when . . " manner, somewhat reminiscent of Clarence Day's "Life With Father", President Moody's article cites several incidents of his boyhood in which the great evangelist figured. It tells of simple, homey things—things which impress themselves upon a boy's mind, and do so much to give a picture of the man as he really was.

President Moody's original plan was to write a series of personal rememberances solely for his own satisfaction, but later he decided to submit it to the "Atlantic Monthly" for publication. Probably he was prompted to do so because of his dislike of some of the things which have recently been written about the famous preacher—especially this year, the hundredth anniversary of his birth.

"My father was a man who would have been apt to excell in almost anything he attempted," said President Moody in discussing his article. "His friends in the world of business, men who were leaders in their field, often looked upon him as a superior. But my purpose in publishing the article was to show my father as he really was—a family man, a man who loved horses and a flourishing garden. Of the fifty-odd biographies which have been written about my father, very few have given what I thought was a true picture."

The article created a great deal of favorable comment, and many readers sent letters expressing their thanks. Much of the "fan mail" was from people who had met and heard Dwight L. Moody in his evangelistic tours about the country. Other letters were from people who were interested in the man and his work—one from a Catholic priest, another from a Jewish rabbi, and one from a woman in whose home the traveling Moody once stayed.

First Saxonian in Series of Five to Have Larger Number of Contributors and Numerous Illustrations

When the Saxonian comes off the press around the middle of October, do not feel that Middlebury has been deprived of a tradition.

The first issue, in its change of focus, will only be following the distinctive fashion in which the desire is for growth and change. As you look at the cover you will see that the new board is not concerned with the past as much as with the present—the literary magazine, following the new liberal attitude, has dedicated its first publication to the freshmen.

To make the magazine more interesting and readable to a wider scope of people, there will be an effort to get away from intravert subject matter. A balance of contemporary subjects in political, economic and social lines will be emphasized; without stultifying creative literature.

The first Saxonian will contain more illustrations than usual, representing much material by illustrators not on the staff. The main feature will be an interview with Professor Robert Davis.

The staff contributions will be assigned this year, leaving a wide opening for contributions from students not on the staff. In an attempt to stimulate interest and uncover the literary ability of freshmen as well as upper classmen, there will be six contests instead of the usual three. They will cover the fields of poetry, short short story, photography, personal experience, the play and the short story. There will be five issues of the Saxonian instead of the usual four, and the contributions will, for the most part, be handed back with criticisms.

The Saxonian will assume a slightly different aspect this year, in that it will contain artcles whch are not of a purely literary type, but rather which introduce a more newsy and journalistic element.

Edward B. Hayward '38 and Jeannette C. Martin '40 are cooperating in writing an analysis of the freshman class. Besides this, this edition of the Saxonian will contain one of the first articles in the country which deal with the Spansh war from the Franco side of the question.

ROSE-COLORED GLASSES

Freshmen look at college through rose-colored glasses. They see the campus "big-shots" in journalistic affairs, the hero of athletic wars, the president of the honorary society. They muse over how "wonderful" it must feel to be at the top of the extracurricular heap.

Seniors look at college through the crystal-clear microscope of experience,—sadder and wiser men. The lure of the non-study activity, many of them know, can turn from a beautiful dream to a horrible nightmare. It is the undergraduate who attains a three-fold balance of curricular, social and extracurricular life that gets the most benefit from his four years at college.

To assist first-year women in establishing this vital but obscure balance, the Student Union and Mortar Board have taken many steps, such as establishment of an extracurricular point system. The men's college, however, still allows one man to monopolize too many positions, still maintains too many weak and overlapping—but time-consuming societies. The CAMPUS has advocated, and will continue to advocate the elimination or unification of many college clubs, and prohibitions against any individual holding more than one important extracurricular office simultaneously.

EDUCATION VS. SCHOOLING

Schooling is not education. It is only one part of a process which should continue throughout life. It should be, as President Leigh of Bennington college puts it, "a constant keeping-up, not a single period of storing up of knowledge in youth".

Colleges, in general, contain many students who have neither desire nor ability to be there. Yet, in the cultural deserts of the slums and sweat-shop factories, are millions of people who pathetically want and urgently need education.

With the proper supervision added to the unquestioned will for non-school education, the things learned out of the classroom, far surpass the sponge-like learning of school days. In the mill, as well as in the office, the inquiring mind can grasp the constant expansion and criticism of knowledge.

HEPBURN UNSOCIAL HALL

Hepburn social hall is about the most unsocial place on campus. Hard, straight chairs and barren tables give the spot a rating of "minus-zero" as far as the clubroom atmosphere goes. At least two material improvements could be put into effect soon.

First, the Student Council could adopt the definite policy of appropriating each year a certain percentage of Undergraduate Association dues to the purchase of overstuffed chairs, reading lamps, light literature etc.,—another recreational reading room on slightly more masculine lines. Tuesday the Council decided to spend one hundred dollars for such purposes. The ball already seems rolling in the right direction.

Secondly, the hall might be used for short, after-dinner dances several nights a week. Music could be furnished by the piano. The time might well be from seven o'clock to eight. To adopt this suggestion, which would give Middlebury a recreational period similar to those in effect at most coeducational institutions, the rule prohibiting dances in college dormitories must be relaxed by this exception.

Jane Kingsley To Manage Debating

Tentative Schedule Planned With First Debates to Be

Jane W. Kingsley '38 will manage this year's women's debate team, under the direction of Prof. Perley C. Perkins. An announcement will be made in chapel of the date of tryouts open to all classes.

The trip to Maine for debating Colby and Bates colleges has been planned for the middle of October. Early in November the team will meet debaters from Keene Normal here. The debate with St. Lawrence is to be held away.

Just prior to Christmas vacation the usual Boston trip will be taken to face debaters from Boston university and Radcliffe. On the slate for the winter season appear such names as Rhode Island State, William and Mary, Skidmore, University of Vermont, and New York State Teachers.

This year's debating season will be terminated in the spring by the New York trip. One of the questions to be argued this season has been decided upon: Resolved: That the several states should adopt unicameral legislatures.

Possibilities for experienced members of this year's line-up include the following: Miss Kingsley, Frances M. Russell '38, Elizabeth I. MacCulloch '38, Edith K. DuBois '39, Gertrude M. Bittle '39, Frances E. Kellogg '39, and Hope T. Littlefield '39.

NOTICES

The winter carnival committee announces a competition for themes for a musical comedy to be presented during the 1938 winter carnival. Persons interested should collaborate with one who could write songs and then prepare a synopsis of the plot and the possibilities of the musical numbers, and hand them to John B. Gray '39 or Eleanor Jeschke '39.

Some years ago it was necessary to rebuild Mead Chapel spire because the timbers had rotted out due to leakage through bullet holes in the copper work. Again the students have used the spire as a target and again the timbers are showing the same effects. Not only is this thoughtlessness expensive to the College but dangerous to members of the College inasmuch as the direction of the shots is towards a section of the campus which is much traveled. It has, therefore, been decided that students shall no longer be permitted to keep firearms in the College dormitories. Those who have them in their possession should tag them and turn them over to the Dean who will keep them until such time as the student can take them home. In special cases where the student is interested in hunting a special arrangement should be made with the Dean. This goes into effect at once.

B. A. HAZELTINE
Dean.

A freshman dancing class is being held in Forest recreation room under the sponsorship of the women's athletic association.

Freshman Canoes 300 Miles From Yonkers to Attend College Session

Middlebury men have had occasion to find many varied means of transportation between home and college, but the mode adopted by Royce Hubert of the entering class is perhaps a little more unusual than the average.

Leaving Yonkers, New York at 8:00 a. m. Friday, September 3, Hubert paddled a canoe over approximately three hundred miles of rivers, canals and lakes to arrive at Weybridge, just outside of Middlebury within two hours of an even two weeks after he started.

After leaving his home town, Hubert canoed past Bear Mountain and over to West Point. One of his earlier camps was made on Constitution Island, just across from the foot of the West Point campus. It was while he was camping here he was told by the old colored caretaker that his story would be in newspapers all over the country before the trip was over.

Continuing up the Hudson, the trip led past Peekskill and Poughkeepsie to Troy. There he left the Hudson and was lifted through twelve locks into the barge canal. He went through some of the locks with other boats, through several by himself, and had to portage around one.

After traveling the length of the canal, Hubert finally entered Lake Champlain. He got as far as Fort Ticonderoga before a storm came up and forced him to lay up for two days. Starting again, he kept to the eastern side of the lake, passing under the Lake Champlain Bridge, and finally striking the Otter creek at Fort Cassin. From there it was only a step to Weybridge, the only outstanding incident being a portage he was forced to make at Vergennes to avoid the dam.

Hubert made the trip in a seventeen foot Old Town canvass canoe. His equipment weighed about a hundred pounds, and consisted of a sleeping bag, blankets, some changes of clothes, cooking equipment, and food. He made four stops on the way to buy fresh vegetables and milk at towns and farm-houses. Apart from these, he carried all of his food from home.

ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD THIS WEDNESDAY UNDER FINE ARTS DEPARTMENT

An exhibition of Rembrandt and Durer etchings, held under the auspices of the Fine Arts Department and the Social Committee of the Student Union of the Women's College will be open to the members of the Men's and Women's colleges and to members of the Faculty and interested townspeople at 4:00 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 13, in the recreation room at Forest Hall.

These etchings, which comprise fifty of the best known examples of the works of Rembrandt and Durer are selected from the private collection of Miss Jessie Frothingham of Princeton, New Jersey, and comprise one of the finest private collections of its kind.

At four o'clock Wednesday afternoon Miss Frothingham will present a lecture on the significance of Durer.

Middlebury Debate Appears in Annual

Recognition by an established authority has been accorded Middlebury debating with the publication of a Middlebury debate in the 1936-37 "University Debators Annual".

Last season's non-decision contest against a British team, the National Student Union, on the question of the Constitution as a menace to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness was printed in what constitutes the year book of debating. Middlebury, represented by John F. Darrow '37 and Ralph W. Pickard '37, upheld the negative.

The debates printed were chosen as representative of the 1936-37 season. Other colleges honored include Wisconsin university, the University of Southern California, Kenyon college, and Western Reserve university.

Orientation Period Held for Freshmen

Entering Class Welcomed By Series of Receptions And Administrative Talks

Freshman week activities opened Monday evening, September 20, with an informal assembly of both men and women of the entering class in the Playhouse.

Tuesday some of the freshmen women were given a lecture on the use of the library while the remainder began registration. At the same time Dean Hazeltine met the men at the Playhouse for an informal discussion of the college and what is expected of students. In the afternoon the rest of the women were given the lecture on the use of the library. The remainder of the day until 3:30 p. m. for both men and women was given over to registration. At 3:30 the class "get-acquainted" outing was held on the athletic field of the women's campus.

On Wednesday morning part of the men's entering class was given the lecture on the use of the library while the women attended a meeting of the student union and an informal talk given by Dean Ross. In the afternoon the rest of the men were given the lecture on the use of the library and attended an informal talk in Hepburn social hall given by John R. Williams '38, president of the interfraternity council.

Thursday all freshmen attended the first chapel service at which President Moody made the opening address and in the afternoon both men and women were given psychology examinations.

Dinner Exchanges to Be Continued by Fraternities

At an interfraternity council meeting Thursday night it was decided to resume the system of exchange dinner dates which was in use last year.

Tuesday of each week a list of the exchanges for dinner Wednesday night will be posted on Old Chapel bulletin board by Secy. John Golembeske '39 secretary of the council.

Rushing was the only other business discussed during the meeting. It was decided to leave the rushing rules in the same form as they were following revision last year. The rushing period opens November 22 and Saturday, November 27, is to be pledge day. Visiting week, when fraternity men visit freshmen in their rooms begins November 14 with Sunday, November 21, as a rest period.

Vogue Announces Third Annual Fashion Contest

For the third successive year, the editors of Vogue magazine are announcing a career competition open to members of the senior classes of accredited colleges and universities throughout the country.

As in the past two years, there will be two major prizes, each offering a position, with salary, on the staff of Vogue magazine. The winner of the first prize will be awarded on full year's employment with Vogue, six months of which will be spent in the New York office, the remaining six months in Vogue's Paris office. A second prize of six months on Vogue's New York editorial staff will be awarded the runner-up. Both the first prize winners and runner-up will be eligible for permanent positions on Vogue's staff after completion of their trial periods.

Program Enlarged For Frosh Women

As a result of the increased enrollment in the women's college, several new features have been added to the freshman orientation program for the class of 1941.

In addition to attending a tea sponsored by Student Union, a scavenger hunt for men and women under the combined direction of the mountain club and W. A. A., and the traditional Mountain Day at Breadloaf, the entering class was asked to meet last Wednesday for discussion and selection of extra-curricular activities. Due to the size of the class, it was felt that choice of these activities could no longer be carried on without some guidance. Freshman were therefore given lists of campus organizations as follows:

Group A
- CAMPUS editorial staff
- W. A. A.
- Orchestra

Group B
- CAMPUS business staff
- German club
- French club
- Spanish club
- Choir
- Debating

Group C
- Mountain club
- Dramatics

They were asked to check at least one activity. Not more than one in Group A, nor more than two in Group B, might be chosen, but in Group C choice was unlimited. Before making their selection, they had the opportunity of discussing each organization informally with an upperclassman who had taken an active part in it.

Another new feature of orientation brought about by this year's large enrollment, and by the addition of Forest hall, is the exchange of seats in Battell and Forest dining halls.

The custom of assigning a "big sister" to each freshman before the opening of college, to welcome her and to help her at registratiin time, has been continued. This year, however, emphasis has been placed on the need of carrying on this activity over a longer period, and "big sisters" have been urged to keep in touch with freshmen throughout their first four months at Middlebury.

Playwriting Contest Date Postponed to November

Announcement of the postponement of the closing date of the College Play-(writing contest to November 1st has more than doubled the number of scripts entered, according to the joint sponsors, the WPA Federal theatre project and it National Collegiate advisory committee.

Entries received thus far indicate a preference for "poetic drama" of the type Maxwell Anderson has recently brought into prominence. Plays dealing with social problems, both on the campus and off, seem to predominate. Scripts from every region of the country and from colleges of all types are being read by the judges.

Originally scheduled to close on September 1st., the contest period was extended two months to enable student playwrights to rework their scripts on the advice of their drama professors after the opening of college this fall.

Sheldon Museum Exhibits Lighting Fixtures of Past Twenty Centuries

Picture, if you can, the home of the neolithic cave man, lit by only a blazing bowl of fat, and then contrast this scene with one in a modern home, equipped with the very latest in direct and indirect lighting fixtures.

The Sheldon Museum is at present sponsoring an intereting exhibition of the growth of lighting facilities from the time of the cave man to the present. Ranged about the downstairs rooms of the museum are examples of nearly every kind of lighting fixtures known to mankind. The visitor is first introduced to different sorts of saucer lamps, in which men of 350 A. D. burned oils and animal fats. We see the development of the closed saucer, and finally addition of the wick.

The first closed lamp was introduced about 1800. An example of one of these sperm oil lamps is one which belonged to Amon Wilcox, father of the oldest living graduate of Middlebury.

Contrary to popular belief, the candle was decidedly more of a luxury than an oil lamp. It eliminated the odor and the smoke which was given off by burning fats. Candle molds and equipment for dipping candles can be seen in the museum.

Examples of the first camphne lamps those which burned a highly explosive but better smelling turpentine are also among the collection. Finally the visitor sees the last of the lamps that were in general use, the kerosene lamp. With it are shown many of the old storm lanterns which burned camphine sperm oil, or kerosene. There are several good illustrations of signal lanterns which were used here at the time of the Revolution. Among this group are lamps which belonged to Mr. Seth Storrs who lived in Middlebury in 1835, and after whom Storrs Avenue was named.

Finally there is an exhibit of electric lighting, ranging all the way from the first globular Edison bulbs, to the indirect chandelier and wall lighting fixtures of the day. In addition to these exhibits, there are many old books and posters which illustrate other lamp styles.

FRESHMAN ANALYSES SHOW EXTRA

AVERAGE MAN COMES FROM EMPIRE STATE

New Student Is Well-Read Not Partial to Sport, Likes Esquire

Who is this year's freshman? If he is on the men's campus his name is John Robert and he is from New York state. He is not exceptionally good-looking or pre-eminently athletic. Nevertheless, he is going out for cross-country and may try for track. He reads "Esquire" and thinks H. G. Wells has something. But he thinks "Gone With the Wind" is a lousy book—or as much of it as he has read. His favorite orchestra is Benny Goodman's and his favorite popular song is "So Rare". And he's pretty sure that he isn't going out for the CAMPUS.

There are one hundred and fifty four in this year's entering class, two having reentered and two having been degraded from last year. Of these, fifty seven are from New York, thirty from Massachusetts, twenty seven from Vermont, and eleven from Connecticut. Ten come from New Jersey, five from New Hampshire, three from Pennsylvania, and one each from the following states: Ohio, Illinois, California, Deleware, Florida, Rhode Island, and Louisianna. There is one student from Germany in the men's college this year. Four of those from Vermont live in Middlebury.

Norwich Game Feature of Homecoming Week-end

Middlebury's 1937 Alumni Homecoming falls on the week-end of October 22nd24th. The outstanding feature of the program will be the Norwich-Middlebury game on Saturday, the 23rd. It is expected that a record group of returning alumni and former students will attend.

The festivities of the week-end are to be opened by the Kimball Union-Middlebury Freshman football game on Friday afternoon, and the Homecoming Rally is scheduled for 7:00 P. M. Saturday morning from 8:00 to 12:30, alumni are invited to attend Chapel and "open classes". The members of the Alumni Council will meet at the Middlebury Inn at 10:00 A. M. Following the game at 5:30, tea dances will be held at the various fraternity houses, and at 7:30 P. M. the Awards Committee of the Student Council will sponsor an informal dance at McCullough Gymnasium.

The Home coming program will be concluded with the vesper service Sunday evening.

WOMEN IN 1941 GROUP WAX COSMOPOLITAN

Face, Figure and Fashion Arouse Enthusiasm in Entering Class

Who is this year's freshman? If she is on the woman's campus her name is Elizabeth Ruth and she comes from Massachusetts. She is very good-looking, athletic, and dresses more like a college shop ad than do her upperclass sisters. She reads "The Reader's Digest" and was crazy over "Gone With the Wind". Her favorite dance orchestra is Benny Goodman and her favorite popular song is "Star Dust". She is going out for the Mountain club, W. A. A., dramatics, and may join the Women's Forum. She has already joined the French club and hasn't yet decided whether she will try out for the CAMPUS or not.

There are one hundred and seventeen in this year's entering class. Three of these are transfer students. Twenty-six are from Massachusetts, twenty-five from New Jersey, and twenty-four from New York state. Seventeen come from Vermont, nine from Connecticut, six from Pennsylvania, and five from New Hampshire. One student comes from each of the following states: Illinois, Indiana, California, Maine, and Washington, D. C. Of those whose homes are in Vermont, seven live in Middlebury.

Survey Shows Entering Class From 109 Schools

The 155 freshmen and five advanced standing students whose faces are new to the Men's College this fall prepared for college at 76 high schools and 3 private preparatory schools. The states in which their homes are located number 14. The youngest is sixteen and the oldest twenty-three years of age. Marshall Cline of Pleasant Street, Middlebury, comes from the shortest distance and J. Neale Johnson whose home is in Palos Verdes, California, has traveled more miles to attend Middlebury than any other member of his class.

The higher institutions represented by the advanced standing students include Columbia university, Haverford college, New York university, Green university, Haverford college, New York university, Green Mountain Junior college and the University of Illinois.

The 1937 freshman enrollment is a seven percent increase over last year.

President Moody Opens 138th Year

Real Nature of Scholarship Forms Topic of Address In Mead Chapel Sept. 23

"Are you in college for the things that are worth while, that have a lasting value?" asked President Moody in his address to the student body in Mead Memorial Chapel at the formal opening of the college year a week ago Thursday.

Basing his address on the true mean- of scholarship, he said "It is the pursuit that matters, not the capture; the struggle, not the prize; the quest and not the quarry. The world is forever asking 'what have you to show for it?' either in sport or in studies. In sport, a long season of discipline and struggle will yield a letter on a sweater, or perhaps a silver cup. Is it worth the struggle? That very question: "Is it worth the struggle?" shows the failure to understand. Why? The struggle is the whole thing. That is why you make it. You love the challenge!"

In discussing the student's relation to true scholarship, President Moody stated "If you expect to have something tangible to show for being in college, you are going to be disappointed. If you expect to acquire some mystic knowlede, some secrets you can sell at a profit on graduation, you are going to be disappointed. If you believe you are going to procure any formulae which you can translate into cash on the completion of your course you are sadly mistaken."

"There is a sense in which college can do nothing, absolutely nothing, for you. But you can do almost everything for yourself in college. You are your own teacher if you learn anything. The rest of us are your assistants," he continued.

"Are you in college for the things that are worth while, that have a lasting value? Or is the final examination at the end of the semester the boundary of your hopes and plans? In other words, do you want a degree or an education? You may seem to be better off with the degree than the education. You may more easily get a position. But, in the end you will not be as well equipped as you would did you have an education, whether or not a degree had been awarded to you," President Moody further stated.

Closing his address, he said "The world needs thinking people, who can distinguish between the demagogue and the statesman, who cannot be misled by the spurious and the specious, but who in important decisions can see clearly, think straight, and with the courage to state his convictions and stand by them. If you learn to do this in college, you will not have come in vain."

Dr. Paul E. Scherer To Speak In Chapel Sunday

Dr. Paul E. Scherer, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity in New York, will speak at vespers Sunday, November 10, on the subject, "The Rainbow 'Round the Throne".

Dr. Scherer, who received his B. A., M. A., and L. L. D. from the College of Charleston, South Carolina, was ordained in the Lutheran church in 1916 and took his present pastorate in 1920.

His career has been varied. A radio speaker for four summers over a national hook-up, he was chaplain at Chautauqua, N. Y., during the summers of 1925, '28, and '36. He has preached at many of the outstanding churches in the east.

Dr. Scherer has also been a guest speaker at such colleges as Skidmore, Yale, Williams and Amherst. He preached in England for one summer in addition.

'Middlebury Night' Honors Freshmen

Mr. Alan Furber '20, Head Of Chandler Secretarial School, Addresses Group

"Middlebury Night", the annual smoker in honor of the freshman men, was held in McCullough gymnasium Thursday evening, September 23. The college band, cheer leaders, student, faculty and guest speakers, combined in an attempt to make the Class of 1941 feel at home in its new environment.

The master of ceremonies, C. Albert Pritchard '38, first introduced Director of Athletics Arthur M. Brown, whose advice to the freshmen was "Plan your work, then work your plan." He urged the incoming class to go out for some extra-curricular activity. Coach Benjamin H. Beck also stressed the importance of extra-curricular activities in college.

President Paul D. Moody introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Alan Furber, a member of the Class of '20, and now the director of the Chandler Secretarial school, in Boston, Mass. Mr. Furber spoke with whole-hearted enthusiasm and spirit which quickly won his audience to him. With a good peppering of funny stores, he spoke first to the upperclassmen, urging tolerance and kindliness toward the new men, then to the freshmen, for whom he had the axiom for success; "Do what ought to be done when it ought to be done".

In addition to these speakers, several undergraduate leaders addressed the gathering. These included John Chalmers '38, Richard C. Soule '38, Milton K. Lins '38, E. Sherburne Lovell '38, and John M. Kirk '39.

Mountain Club Will Run Hike To Pleiad

Membership in Outing Club Is Past Three Hundred Mark and Still Going Up

Next Sunday the mountain club trip will be to Pleiad lake. For all those who were unable to participate in the hike up Snake mountain last week there will be no charge for transportation. All others will be charged the regular fee of forty cents.

The mountain club is completing its membership campaign very satisfactorily. To date the drive has yielded well over three hundred sales, and returns are still coming in.

The first hike was conducted to Snake mountain last Sunday. Nearly 200 people were able to enjoy the trip, and though 110 were turned away, they will be able to go on the next trip free of charge. This list will be posted on the Warner Science bulletin board, and those included need not re-sign.

Many pleasant trips are planned for this fall and according to Bert MacFadden there will be opportunity for every-one to go. The destination of the overnight hike of October 31 is to be announced later.

The schedule is planned as follows:

Oct. 10—Middlebury Gap, Pleiad Lake, Bailey's Falls, Silent Clif.
Oct. 17—Mosalamoo, Falls of Lana.
Oct. 24—Mt. Horrid, Cape Lookout, White Rock.
Oct. 31—Announced later (men's overnight to Glen Ellen).
Nov. 1—Lincoln Mountain.
Nov. 7—Breadloaf Mountain.
Nov. 21—Camel's Hump. Girls to Burnt Hill.
Nov. 28—East Range.
Dec. 12—Burnt Hill (ski trip weather permitting.)

Student Union Meets to Discuss Plans for Year

The social committee of the student union met Friday, October 1, to discuss the social program for the coming year.

Plans were made for an informal coffee, following the football game on October 16. Evelyn Wheeler '39 is in charge of arrangements. There is to be an exhibition of engravings and a lecture by Miss Frothingham on October 12th at 4:00 o'clock. Tea will be served by the social committee, and members of the faculty and both colleges are invited.

The group, which consists of Annette C. Tuthill '38, Dorothy E. Wing '39, Laura R. Smith '40, and Virginia Vaughn '41, also discussed activities to foster better relationships between upperclass women and freshman women. Plans for the convention of student union officials of New England colleges are also under discussion. This meeting is to be held in May.

SPORTS

On The Ball

by Soule

After shaking myself loose from Middlebury, sleeping in a hole in the wall in the Albany, Friday night, and riding the Greyhound bus lines, I landed in Oneonta, New York, one of the Empire State's fairest little cities and the home of Hartwick college. I took in the grid encounter in the afternoon and saw the Panther eleven win easily in an unimpressive game. What took place before and during the game by the undergraduates of Hartwick, however, struck me like a hole in one artist pasting a drive at me when I'm only seventy-five yards away.

Hartwick, founded in 1929, the ideal year to lay a cornerstone for any sort of a project, has one building, an enrollment of something over two hundred, and a good football field. They have won less than a half-a-dozen grid contests in the history of the sport in the school and they have slight chance of increasing the total this year. But yet with all disadvantages considered the night before the ame the entire two hundred, a few high school kids, and some local urchins that were draged in paraded the main street of the town stopping in front of the hotel to give the Middlebury squad a loud and lusty cheer. To color the parade a little they carried flares and every freshman had a sign with various scores of the game predicting a Hartwick victory by scores ranging from 20 to 60-0, when in actuality they felt that they were cheering for the impossible. In addition there was a car full of cripples representing the Blue and White team.

The plebes were an especially noticeable figure in the parade and at the game. It was the duty of every freshman, male or female, to add in some way to the spirit.

During the game the proud 200 cheered their heads off though their dearly beloved eleven didn't even have a scoring opportunity the entire game and time was called every two minutes to treat an injured member of a poorly conditioned squad. The townspeople claimed that the high school administered a defeat to the college team every time they scrimmaged, but yet the proud 200 still cheered. This to me is spirit almost in an ideal form.

Middlebury had a grid team that has showed signs of power and finesse that is yet to be fully revealed. It has won one ball game, lost another, and should win at least four or five of the next six contests. There is more reserve strength in the line than even the undefeated 1936 team had and though the replacements for the backfield are few and somewhat weaker, there is a veteran quartet that has been playing together since their freshman year and also "Scoop". They should go places before the season is over.

So it's not shouting at a blank wall and getting no response. The plebes have a chance to provide the glamour and humor which give any spirit a little spectacular effect. First indications in some respects don't look too promising in the lowly quarter when out of 110 (at least) freshmen available for assistant manager's duties of their own team, two fellows show up after two weeks of practice and then only after repeated urging there's something radically wrong. When a fair percentage seem to think that the final rung in the ladder of glory is attained in the first few weeks at Middlebury, perhaps because nearly all restrictions have been removed and there is little means of enforcement of what few that are left, there is again something wrong.

There is plenty of opportunity for redemption before and at the home games especially. And for the entire student body remember there is a little college in New York State that is rocking the rafters of every building in the town by their spirit with mighty little hope of receiving any satisfaction. Just one half of the same enthusiasm will mark Middlebury as a college with spirit—so let's get on the ball.

Grid Team To Face Coast Guard Eleven

Contest to Be Played Under Lights Saturday at New London

With one victory and one defeat on the books, the Panther football squad will journey to New London, Conn., this Saturday to engage a fast and scrappy Coast Guard eleven in a night game to be played on the academy's lighted field.

Following the 26 to 0 defeat of Hartwick, the Blue and White squad looks good for another victory at the expense of the Connecticut eleven. The backfield will find Chalmers at quarter and Guarnaccia and Mahoney or Boehm at the halfback positions. Liljenstein will start at fullback in all probability.

The starting positions for the forward wall are still a matter of question. Kirk and Winslow are sure to see the opening whistle at the end positions and Captain Anderson is a sure starter at right tackle. The left tackle position will find either Murray or Cridland starting. Skinner, Jacques, Vartuli, and King are the eligibles for the guard posts while Golembeske gets the starting call at the pivot position.

The Coast Guard eleven, although having dropped its first game to Wesleyan, 27-0, came back last Saturday with a 7-6 win over Worcester Tech and will present fast and fighting opposition for the Panthers. Waldron will start at quarterback for the Guardsmen with Schrader and Winstead at the half-back positions. Al Engle will fill the fullback post to complete a very fast and clever backfield.

Two fast ends, Crock and McClondon, will go down on the opening kickoff and Palman and McClelland will be hitting hard at the tackle posts. O'Neill and Leising will be at left and right guard positions with Miller snapping them back at the center post. Unusual in Coast Guard's lineup is the use of five or six first year men.

Playing on their home field and using a strong reserve squad, the Guardsmen will offer stern opposition for the Panthers. However, on the basis of performances to date, Middlebury appears to have a slight edge. At Oneonta last Saturday, the Blue and White showed signs of the punch that carried it through last year's great season. Coast Guard has met two strong openers in Wesleyan and Worcester Tech, and should be in excellent shape for Saturday's game.

Harriers To Meet Bard Team Away

Panther Squad Encounters New York State Team in First Contest Saturday

The Panther cross-country team will meet the Bard college outfit at Annondale-on-Hudson this coming Saturday, October 9. Seven or eight men will make the trip, starting Friday morning and remaining in Troy overnight.

The probable lineup will be as follows; Capt. Richardson, Post, P. Cushman, Goodell, J. Smith, Cary, R. Cushman, Gelassie and R. Anderson. Trials were held Saturday over a short course, and the team will be definitely determined from those results. Richardson, and Post did not run the trials because of sickness, but they will be included on the team from their showings in past prformances.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Touch Football

The touch football series began yesterday, when CP defeated BK by a score of 6-0. Today's game is between thme DU and ASP teams. Following directly afterward come games between DKE and KDR, SPE and Neutrals.

Individual Tennis

Play has already begun in the individual intramural tennis tournament. Among this fall's entries are several of the 1937 varsity tennis team, and others who have made their letters in previous years. These include Paul G. Buskey '38, Jack C. Kier '38, William O'Keefe '39, and Curtis McDowell '40.

Golf

Golfers from each of the fraternities and from the neutral body will again compete this fall for the golf cup. First round eliminations are to be finished by Friday of this week, while the second and third rounds will be completed on October 14 and October 21. First round matches will be played between DKE and ASP, SPE and DU, CP and KDR, BK and Neutrals.

Frosh Eleven To Meet Union Here

Middlebury Yearling Team Will Be Tested Saturday In First Game of Season

Thirty frosh football candidates have been drilling for a week in preparation for a stiff schedule-opener with Union Saturday afternoon, at Porter Field.

Two scrimmages with the varsity reserves have been held and Coach Nash reports that the freshmen proved themselves strong defensively but weak on the offense. In the first scrimmage the varsity reserve scored once and then only on a long pass.

The Panther eleven will not be heavy, probably averaging less than 170 pounds. Coach Nash expects to use Barry, Kister, Crawford and Arnold at the end posts. The tackles will be chosen from Mayo, Krauzer, Tucker and Cumistock. Bartlett, Thomas, Unsworth and Conklin will see service at guard and Treat and Schenck will alternate at center.

Bertuzzi or Hutton at quarterback, Brown or Van Gaasbeck at left half, Hawes at right half and Johnson at fullback will probably make up the backfield. The Union first year men are said to have a better club this year than the one which handed the Panther one of its two set-backs last year. The rest of the freshman schedule is also tough as the first year eleven meets such teams as Williams, Kimball Union academy, Norwich and Vermont.

Last season's schedule was an above-average record with three hard-earned victories and two close defeats. Losing to Union by 6-0 in the first game, the yearling eleven defeated Williams the following Saturday, 7-0. They suffered a 13-6 defeat by Kimball Union.

Panthers Show Signs of Strength in Opening Games Away

Middlebury 26 - Hartwick 0

Middlebury returned to the win column last Saturday when the Panther gridmen defeated Hartwick college, 26-0, on Webb field at Oneonta, N. Y.

The Panther's first score came three Kirk blocked a kick and Jacques recovered, giving the ball to Middlebury deep in Hartwick territory. Three plays placed the ball on the three-yard line where Mahoney took it across for the score. Anderson put the ball cleanly through the uprights to place the Panther in the lead, 7 to 0.

Deep in Hartwick territory throughout the first half, Middlebury capitalized again late in the second period when Tupka, substituting for Winslow, took a pass from Chalmers in the end zone for the second touchdown. The conversion for the extra point failed. Again in the third quarter Middlebury passes were successful and Chalmers made it 20 to 0 on a lateral pass from Guarnaccia carrying it all the way from the 25 yard line for the third touchdown. Once again they failed to add the extra point.

In the closing minutes of play Liljenstein climaxed a Blue and White scoring march when he smashed over from the one-yard line for the fourth touchdown. Mahoney added the extra point with a rush from the 2 yard line placing Middlebury ahead, 26 to 0, as the game ended.

Middlebury 0 - Williams 7

Opening the 1937 season on Weston Field at Williamstown a week ago Saturday, the Middlebury football team lost to a strong Williams squad by one touchdown, ending the game on the short end of a 7 to 0 score.

The game's only score came midway through the second quarter following a pass interception by Phil Stearns on the Blue and White 45-yard line. Two plays later Stradley circled the right end for a first down. Doug Stearns added a good gain through left tackle and Captain Simmons scored from the one-yard stripe. On the next play he added the extra point to put Williams ahead 7 to 0.

Rev. Percy Ladd Vespers Speaker

Uses Western "Pack-Rat" to Illustrate Loss of Ideals In Personal Satisfaction

The Rev. Percy Ladd, of Burlington, Vt., addressed the student body at the vespers service Sunday. His sermon was based on his own experience with the western pack-rat, which, he said, leaves something of lesser value in return for everything it steals.

A force with a "vesitge of conscience" like that of the pack-rat seems, according to Dr. Ladd to have come into the lives of many figures in the world's history. He cited the examples of Marc Antony, Benedict Arnold, and the present Duke of Windsor, as men who had lost their sense of public duty and been given as compensation some personal satisfaction. Jacob, who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, and Judas, who received thirty pieces of silver for his betrayal of Jesus, were also mentioned as men robbed by this "pack-rat".

"I wonder," asked Dr. Ladd, "if this little fellow ever comes into college dormitories?" He suggested that in coming to college we sometimes lose things of supreme value, receiving in return such things as a fraternity pin or a delicate taste in cigarettes. We may, he continued, lose the very purpose of college, which he described as being "to train our minds to search out the truth in this perplexing world of ours; to have the tools of mind, of spirit, so that we can go into the world and be at home there, this world being a spiritual place."

Not only the main purpose of the college course, but also our connection with the church and with religion, said Dr. Ladd may be lost to us when we cross the chasm from our home life to that of college.

continue to supervise the administration of the customs, and chronic offenders will be brought before it at one of its meetings.

Members of the upper classes attended the meeting and voiced their opinions. It was shown that a considerable group feels that some definite action must be taken against the infraction of Middlebury traditions. Cases were cited of lack of courtesy towards fellow students and conspicuous abuse of privileges.

Various suggestions were made to combat the difficulty, including a campaign among all upperclassmen to remind the freshmen of the customs, to give members of Blue Key authority to act as representatives of the council, and to reinvoke the freshman rules of former years.

Further business of the council meeting included the appointment of the council as a whole to supervise the gym dances. Discussion was held on the athletic council's proposal to standardize the style of sweaters awarded to members of major athletic teams.
